

The Attorney General Needs Volunteer Mediators To Help Consumers

The Attorney General is recruiting new Volunteer Consumer Complaint Mediators. Training begins Tuesday, April 4, 2006. Volunteers will mediate consumer complaints over the phone and by mail in the Attorney General's Augusta Office. We will thoroughly train you in consumer law and mediation techniques. You are asked to volunteer approximately 6 hours a week on a schedule convenient to you. This includes a weekly law class. If you are interested in joining our April 4, 2006 class, call Assistant Attorney General James McKenna (207-626-88420) or send an e-mail at jim.mckenna@maine.gov. Here is a brochure that more fully describes our program and an application form. Thank you for considering this opportunity.
